thou whether thou be able to stand or unable to do so; and in the saying, أَكْرِمْ زَيْدًا وَإِنْ قَعَدَ i. e. [Treat thou Zeyd with honour] though he be sitting; or, whether he sit or not. (Msb.) [Le! as a compound of the conditional ii and the redundant Lo, see in an art. of which Lol is the heading.] _ [Secondly,] it is a negative, (S, Mughnee, K,) syn. with Lo; (S;) and is put before a nominal proposition; (Mughnee, K;) as in the saying [in the Kur lxvii. 20], إِنِ ٱلْكَافِرُونَ [The unbelievers are not in aught] إلا في غُرُور save in a deception]; (S, Mughnee, K;) and before a verbal proposition; as in [the Kurix. 108,] [We desired not, or meant] إِنْ أَرَدْنَا إِلَّا ٱلْحُسْنَى not, aught save that which is best]. (Mughnee, K.) The assertion of some, that the negative ju does not occur except where it is followed by y, as in the instances cited above, or by لمّا, with teshdeed, which is syn. therewith, as, accord. to a reading of some of the Seven [Readers], in the saying [in the Kur lxxxvi. 4], إِنْ كُلُّ نَغْسِ لَمَّا There] مَا كُلُّ نَفْس إِلَّا عَلَيْهَا حَافظ , i. e. , عَلَيْهَا حَافظ is not any soul but over it is a guardian], is refuted by the sayings in the Kur [x. 69 and lxxii. 26], إِنْ عِنْدَكُمْ مِنْ سُلْطَانِ بِهٰذَا [meaning, accord. to the Jel., Ye have no proof of this that ye say], and إِنْ أَدْرِى أَقَرِيبٌ مَا تُوعَدُونَ [I know not whether that with which ye are threatened be nigh]. (Mughnee, K.*) The conditional and the negative both occur in the saying in the Kur وَلَئُنْ زَالَتَا إِنَّ أُمْسَكُهُمَا مِنْ أُحَدِ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ ([xxxv. 39] [And I swear that, if they should quit their place, not any one should withhold them after Him]: the former is conditional; and the latter is negative, and is [part of] the complement of the oath which is denoted by the U prefixed to the former; the complement of the condition being necessarily suppressed. (Mughnec.) When it is put before a nominal proposition, it has no government, accord. to Sb and Fr; but Ks and Mbr allow its governing in the manner of ليس ; and Sa'eed إن آلدين [Ibn-Jubeyr reads, [in the Kur vii. 193,] إن آلذين Those whom ye] تَدْعُونَ مِنْ دُونِ ٱلله عبَادًا أَمْثَالَكُمْ invoke beside God, or others than God, are not men like you]: also, the people of El-'Aliyeh إن أَحَد خَيرًا مِنْ أَحَد إلا , have been heard to say [Any one is not better than any other one, بالعافية except by means of health, or soundness]; and That is not profitable to إِنْ ذَلِكَ نَافَعَكَ وَلَا ضَارَّكَ thee nor injurious to thee]: as an ex. of its occurrence without government, which is mostly the case, the saying of some, إنَّ * قَائِمُ may be explained as originally إِنْ أَنَا قَائِمُ [I am not standing]; the i of ii being elided for no reason in itself, and the إن of إن being incorporated into the ن of this latter being elided ن of this latter being elided in its conjunction with the following word; but has also been heard. (Mughnee.) Sometimes it occurs [as a negative] in the complement of an oath: you say, وَٱلله إِنْ فَعَلْتُ, meaning [By God, I did not]. (§.) _ [Thirdly,] ما فعلت it is a contraction of إن, and is put before a nominal and before a verbal proposition. (Mughnee, K.) In the former case, it is made to govern and is made to have no government: (S,* K:) [i.e.] in this case, it is allowable to make it govern; contr. to the opinion of the Koofees: (Mughnee:) Lth says that he who uses the contracted form of إن uses the nom. case with it, except that some of the people of El-Hijáz use the accus. case with it: (T:) thus it is said, accord. to one reading, [in the Kur xi. 113,] إِنْ كُلَّا لَهَا [to one reading, [in the Kur xi. 113,] Verily all of them, thy] لَيُوَقِينَهُمْ رَبُّكَ أَعْمَالُهُمْ Lord will indeed fully render them the recompense of their works]: (T, Mughnee:) Fr says, We have not heard the Arabs use the contracted form and make it to govern, unless with a pronoun, in which case the desinential syntax is not apparent; and he adds that in the instance cited above, to be governed in the accus. case كتر to be description to be set by إيوفينهم; as though the phrase were إليوفينهم by would be proper; for you كُلَّ would be say, إِنْ زَيْدُ لَقَائِمُ [Verily Zeyd is standing] : (T:) the ex. given by Sb is, إِنْ عَهْرًا لَمُنْطَلَقٌ [Verily 'Amr is going away]. (Mughnee.) But it is [most] frequently made to have no government; as in the saying [in the Kur xliii. 34 وَإِنْ كُلُّ ذٰلِكَ لَمَا مَتَاعُ ,[accord. to one reading] And verily all that is the furniture] ٱلْحَيَاة ٱلَّدْنْيَا of the present life]; and, accord. to the reading of Hafs, [and of 'Asim and Kh, in the Kur xx. 66, إنْ هُذَانِ لَسَاحِرَانِ [, إنَّ respecting which see [Verily these two are enchanters]; &c. (Mughnee.) When it is put before a verbal proposition, it is necessarily made to have no government: (Mughnee, K:) and in most cases the verb is a preterite and of the kind called ناسخ [which effects a change of the grammatical form or of the meaning in a nominal proposition before which it is placed]; as in the saying [in the Kur ii. 138], And verily it was a great وإن كَانَتْ لَكَبِيرَة matter]; and [in the Kur xvii. 75,] وَإِنْ كَادُوا [And verily they were near to seducing] لَيَغْتَنُونَكُ thee]; (Mughnee;) in which last ex. AZ says, it means , i. e. without doubt ; and so in the same ch. vv. 78 and 108: (T:) less frequently it is an aor. of a verb of this kind; as in the saying وَإِنْ نَظُنَّكَ لَمِنَ ٱلْكَاذِبِينَ ,[in the Kur xxvi. 186] [And verily we think thee to be of the number of the liars]: and both these kinds of expression may be taken as exs. to be imitated: less frequently than this it is a preterite of a verb not of the kind termed ناسخ; as in the saying [of a poet],

[May thy right arm, or hand, dry up, or become unsound! verily thou hast slain a Muslim]; but this may not be taken as an ex. to be imitated; contr. to the opinion of Akh; for he allows the phrase, to the opinion of Akh; for he allows the phrase, i أَنْ قَعَدَ لَأُنْتَ الا stood], and إِنْ قَامَ لَأَنْ [Verily thou sattest]: and less frequently than this it is an aor. of a verb not of the kind termed i يُزِينُكَ لَنَفْسَكَ وَإِنْ , wind the saying i يُشِينُكَ لَمَعْسَكَ وَإِنْ thee, and it is that which deforms thee]; and this, by common consent, may not be taken as an ex. to be imitated. (Mughnee.) Wherever you find ; إن after it, decide that it is originally إن (Mughnee, K;) as in the exs. above: but respecting this J there is a difference of opinion: see this letter. (Mughnee.) J says, (TA,) إن is some-ل and this must have إنّ , and this must put before its predicate, to compensate for what is elided, of the doubled letter; as in the saying in the Kur [lxxxvi. 4, accord. to him who reads L instead of إِنْ كُلَّ نَفْس لَهَا عَلَيْهَا حَافِظٌ [لَبًّا [Verily every soul hath over it a guardian]; and in the saying, إِنْ زَيْدُ لَأَخُوكَ [Verily Zeyd is thy brother]; in order that it may not be confounded with !! which is syn. with the negative Lo: (S, TA :) but IB says, J is here introduced to distinguish between negation and affirmation, and this ju has neither subject nor predicate; so J's saying that the J is put before its predicate is without meaning: and this \cup is sometimes introduced with the objective complement of a verb; as in إن ضربت [Verily I struck, or beat, Zeyd]; and with the agent; as in إِنْ قَامَ لَزَيْدُ [Verily Zeyd stood]. (TA.) When the contracted is governs, this J is not necessary; so you may say, إن زيدا قائم jis not necessary; so you may say, [Verily Zeyd is standing]; because in this case it cannot be confounded with the negative; for the negative does not render the subject mansoob and the predicate marfooa: and when it does not govern, if the meaning is apparent, the \bigcup is not needed; as in

[And we are persons who refuse to submit to injury, of the family of Málik: and verily the family of Málik are generous in respect of their origins]; كَانَتْ being here for كَانَتْ (I'Ak p. 99.) [Fourthly,] it is redundant, (Ṣ, Mughnee, K,) occurring with is; as in the saying, [Zeyd does not stand]; (Ṣ;) and in the saying [of a poet],

[Thou didst not a thing which thou dislikes]. (Mughnee, K: in the CK أَنَيْتُ.) It is mostly thus used after the negative is, when put before a verbal proposition; as above; or before a nominal proposition; as in the saying,

[And our habit is not convardice; but our destinies and the good fortune of others caused our being defeated]: and in this case it prevents the government of Le, as in this verse: but in the saying,

[Sons of Ghudáneh, ye are not indeed gold, nor silver, or pure silver, but ye are pottery], accord. to him who relates it thus, saying (, accord), and (, accord), in the accus. case, it is explained as a negative, corroborative of ω : (Mughnee :) and accord. to J,
